How Potti walked into his own trap

He had alleged the dwarapalaka peedams were missing; they were found at his kin's place

JAISON WILSON @ Pathanamthitta

ONCE celebrated as a generous sponsor at Sabarimala and a familiar face among the temple's inner circles, Unnikrishnan Potti now finds himself at the centre of one of the most sensational temple-related investigations in the state.

Once regarded as a respected priest, the first accused in the Sabarimala gold theft case now cuts a very different figure in public. When Potti was produced in court, he faced open hostility—shoes were hurled at him from the crowd. He told the media later, without naming anyone: "Those who trapped me will be revealed."

the day he stepped into the of the hill shrine and the devospotlight. At a time when a row over the Global Ayyappa Sangamam had erupted, he alleged that the pedestals (peedams) of the dwarapalaka idols installed beside the temple's sanctum sanctorum had gone missing. The accusation triggered a political and religious storm, raising questions of temple heritage, security and trust.

However, what began as a "devotee's concern" soon took a stunning turn. Within days, the Devaswom Vigilance recovered the missing peedam from the house of Potti's sister. That discovery unravelled a trail that eventually led investigators to what they allege is a larger operation involving theft and replacement of temple assets. On September 28, the day the idols were seized from his sister's home, TNIE contacted Potti. He admitted that the peehis aides "for maintenance". "During Covid, my aide kept the peedam at his house. Since TDB (Travancore Devaswom Board) did not ask for it, I forgot about it," Potti had said.

He added: "I have epilepsy, which causes memory lapses. I have been on eptoin and pregabalin for 25 years."

In the remand report, accessed by TNIE, the special investigation team (SIT) said around 2 kg of Sabarimala temple gold was stolen and replaced with bronze replicas. The report names Potti as the prime mover in the alleged conspiracy, assisted by nine others. The SIT has urged the court to deny Potti's dramatic fall began him bail, citing the sensitivity tional sentiments of millions of Ayyappa devotees. They also found that Potti, who worked as an assistant priest (keezh shanti) at Sabarimala between 2004 and 2008, is well-acquainted with the structure of the shrine and the work carried out, including the gold-plating done on the roof and surrounding structures in 1998.

The report said Potti misused this knowledge to gain access to gold-plated copper sheets and embellishments on the dwarapalaka idols and pillars on the northern and southern sides of the sanctum sanctorum. He allegedly colluded with other accused who were duty-bound to protect Devaswom property, and by violating TDB procedures and HC directives, managed to have the sheets removed on July 19 and 20, 2019.

PANELS REINSTALLED

Pathanamthitta: The restored gold-covered copper plates of the Dwarapalaka idols were reinstalled at the Sabarimala Ayyappa temple on Friday, coinciding with the opening of the hill shrine for the five-day monthly poojas. Travancore Devaswom Board president P S Prasanth said the sheets were reinstalled in accordance with temple traditions. The sanctum sanctorum was opened by melsanthi Arun Kumar Namboothiri in the presence of thantri Kandararu Mahesh Mohanararu. The shrines of the Upadevathas were also opened, followed by the lighting of the aazhi (sacred fireplace) at the temple. Soon after the opening rituals, the restored gold-plated copper sheets were affixed to the Dwarapalaka idols that stand on either side of the sanctum. The reinstallation was accompanied by a special tantric ritual. Travancore Devaswom Board (TDB) president P S Prashanth and senior officials of the board were present. Devotees were permitted darsan during the reinstallation procedures. The process assumes significance as it comes in the backdrop of an ongoing probe by the Special Investigation Team (SIT) into allegations of theft of temple gold during the purported gold plating of the shrine in 2019. Meanwhile, President Droupadi Murmu will visit the Sabarimala temple on October 22, the final day of the ongoing pooja. Restrictions will be in place for darsan in connection with the VVIP visit.

HE MIGHT HAVE ABSCONDED: SIT

Pathanamthitta: The Special Investigation Team (SIT) has stated that Unnikrishnan Potti might have absconded if prompt action had not been taken. According to the SIT report, officers received credible information on October 16 that Potti might attempt to go into hiding. Given the time-bound nature of the probe under Kerala High Court directions, the SIT moved swiftly. to secure his custody. Later that day, Potti was detained and brought to Thiruvananthapuram, where he was questioned. Based on the evidence, Potti was formally arrested at 2.40 am on October 17 in accordance with legal procedures.

Customs grants nod for provisional release of Dulquer's luxury car

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kochi

THE CUSTOMS Commissionerate (Preventive). Kochi. on Friday allowed the provisional release of two seized luxury vehicles -- a Land Rover Defender belonging to actor Dulquer Salmaan and a Toyota Land Cruiser of a Thrissur resident named Robin. The move follows the Kerala High Court issuing an interim order allowing the actor to approach the customs for release of his vehicle. The additional commissioner of customs gave the approval, acting under Section 110 (A) of the Customs Act, 1962, which allows for the provisional release of seized goods pending the final outcome of the case adjudication.

"The two cars were allowed for release, subject to specific conditions," a senior customs official said. The customs had launched 'Operation Numkhor' (a Bhutanese word for 'vehicle') on September 23 to crack down on a major racket suspected of illegally importing high-end, pre-owned vehicles, primarily from Bhutan.

These vehicles were allegedly brought into India using forged documents, often involving fraudulent registration and massive tax evasion.

The crackdown saw raids across the state, in which at least 43 vehicles were seized, including that of celebrities. The customs has compiled a list of 150 to 200 such vehicles.

The customs authorities released the vehicles under strict financial and legal guarantees. With this, 39 seized high-end cars have been provisionally returned to their owners. However, another car belonging to Dulquer, a Nissan Patrol, seized from the house of one of his relatives at Vennala, remains in customs' custody.
